Patient Centered Care: Beyond the Diagnosis

So many things matter: family, faith, the past, the present, the future, regrets, accomplishments, hope, peace, grace. What does religion or faith mean? How can it/does it help? What does it mean to review a life--whether well-lived or not-so-well lived? What might distress look like? How can we help those with?

Presented by: Pam Lojewski, Spiritual Care Coordinator, Heartland Hospice

Rev. Pamela Lojewski has been with Heartland Hospice as a Spiritual Care Coordinator for more than 8 years. She previously served as a pastor to 2 Lutheran (ELCA) congregations in southwest Wisconsin. Her chaplaincy care started with study and work as a chaplain at Gundersen Lutheran Medical Center in LaCrosse, WI.

Her current role puts her in a constant state of learning and growing about different families and people as they react to the reality of the end of life. Sometimes a diagnosis brings physical pain, sometimes it is more psychological or emotional. The entire team is essential to the end-of-life care. And she considers it a privilege to be in such a sacred place and time with patients and those who love them.
